Statement from PUCT Commissioner Jimmy Glotfelty on the Publication of Texas Advanced Nuclear Reactor Working Group Report and Policy Recommendations

AUSTIN, Texas – Below is a statement from Public Utility Commission of Texas (PUCT) Commissioner Jimmy Glotfelty on the public release of the Texas Advanced Nuclear Reactor Working Group’s final report and policy recommendations. The full report, Deploying a World-Renowned Advanced Nuclear Industry in Texas: Considerations and Recommendations for Action, is available on the PUCT’s website.

“I want to thank Governor Greg Abbott for his leadership on this important issue,” PUCT Commissioner Jimmy Glotfelty said. “He recognized early on the incredible opportunity the State of Texas has to become the world leader in advanced nuclear power and took action, creating the Texas Advanced Nuclear Reactor Working Group to map out the future of this industry in Texas. Thanks to his foresight, Texas is already leading the way, and we are entering the 89th Texas Legislative Session with policy recommendations that will establish a world-renowned advanced nuclear industry.

The brightest minds in advanced nuclear energy are already here in Texas, and they were the drivers of this groundbreaking report. I’m grateful to the nuclear industry leaders, experts from the University of Texas at Austin and Texas A&M University, manufacturing and supply chain powerhouses, and leaders from every level of government who served their state and participated in this effort. This report is just the beginning. Now, Texas and our leaders are equipped with the information they need to take swift action and ensure advanced nuclear power delivers safe, reliable, and affordable energy for generations of Texans to come.”

About the Public Utility Commission of Texas
